

Jae Ho CHUNG is a professor of international relations and director of the Program on US-China Relations (PUCR) at Seoul National University. He also serves as the China Director for the Seoul Forum for International Affairs. A graduate of Seoul National University, Brown University, and the University of Michigan where he received his Ph.D. in 1993, Professor Chung previously taught at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology (1993-96) and was the Brookings Institution's CNAPS Fellow (2002-3). Dr. Chung is the author or editor of eighteen books, including Central Control and Local Discretion in China (Oxford University Press, 2000), Between Ally and Partner (Columbia University Press, 2007), Assessing China's Power (Palgrave, 2015), and Centrifugal Empire (Columbia University Press, 2016). He was a member of the editorial committee of China Quarterly (2007-12) where he published six articles. He currently serves on the editorial committees of Asian Survey, Pacific Affairs, East Asia, Asian Perspectives, and Issues and Studies. Professor Chung is the founder of the Asian Network for the Study of Local China (ANSLoC: <http://www.ansloc.net>). He is also a recipient of the John and Catherine MacArthur Foundation's Asia Security Initiative grant during 2009-12, of Seoul National University's Best Researcher Award in 2009, of the Korean Association for International Studies' Best Book Award in 2012, and of the 2017 Choice Award for his most recent book Centrifugal Empire.